About Me

I am a full-stack web developer with over 4 years of experience. I spent about a year working at a knowledge-based company in Pardis Technology Park, Tehran, and have also worked on various projects remotely and as a freelancer. Additionally, I collaborated part-time for 5 months with the startup Safino as a full-stack web developer. I have a strong interest in artificial intelligence and language models, and I am always eager to learn and apply these technologies in creative and innovative projects.
